

Card	Career	Storyline
K	Doctor	3: You are the most sought after plastic surgeon in the world who has rejuvenated countless celebrities 2: You found public healthcare to be your passion and traded a large salary for helping the underserved.
Q	Lawyer	3: You are the Chief Legal Officer at the largest investment firm in New York City 2: You are a public defendant and feel fulfilled by volunteering your knowledge for less pay
J	Software Engineer	3: You develop a popular app that gets acquired by a major tech company. You work remotely, travel the world, and cash in stock options. 2: You spend your days fixing bugs for outdated systems. The work is stable, but uninspiring—and the burnout is real.
10	Investment Banker	3: You close a billion-dollar merger and secure a massive year-end bonus. Everyone at your firm knows your name. 2: Long hours and high stress burn you out. You switch to a smaller firm for balance, but the paycheck takes a hit.
9	Entrepreneur	3: You turn a bold idea into a thriving business. You landed on an episode of Shark Tank and your business is booming after going viral. 2: You max credit cards chasing a dream. You believe in your vision, but the long hours are becoming burdensome. Still, this debt isn't going to pay itself.
8	Chef	3: You become a celebrity chef with your own cooking show and cookbook deal. Rivalled only by Gordon Ramsey, fans line up for selfies—and your soufflés. 2: You love cooking and open up a food truck that becomes a local favorite. The grind is tough, but your community is awesome and it will pay off one day.
7	Nurse	2: You become a lead nurse at the top hospital in the city. You are trusted by coworkers and patients alike. 1: You pull double shifts on understaffed units. You have to keep going, but the exhaustion takes its toll.

6	Mechanic	2: You open your own shop, have loyal customers, and apprentices on the side. You're respected and financially stable. 1: You're underpaid at a chain repair center. The work is hard on your body and there's little time to build your own clientele.
5	Teacher	2: You win a national award for teaching and start consulting on education policy. Your impact grows far beyond your classroom. 1: You're overwhelmed and constantly covering costs the school cannot afford. You love your students, but wonder how long you can keep it up.
4	Dog-Walker	2: You marketed your skills well and have built quite the client list consisting of many wealthy families who tip well 1: You just need constant puppy energy in your life and don't care about the money
3	Gravedigger	2: Many of the bodies are buried with expensive jewelry and you work in the darkness of night...a perfect duo 1: You work the dayshift and have to act honestly and morally
2	Janitor	2: You're the head of facilities at a top university. You're union-protected, well-respected, and take pride in keeping everything running smoothly. 1: You work long night shifts cleaning offices no one appreciates. It pays the bills, but it leaves little time or energy for anything else.